ABSTRACT

Data on tuition and required fees and room and board charges at Pennsylvania colleges and universities for 1981-82 are presented, along with comparative data for previous years. In general, the tuition and required fees doubled from the academic year 1972-73 to 1981-82. By category these increases ranged from a low of 82.7 percent at state-related commonwealth universities to a high of 128.5 percent at the private state-aided institutions. In many instances, tuition increases lagged behind the consumer price index by one or two years. From 1972-73 through 1981-82, combined room and board charges increased at a smaller rate than tuition and required fees. These increases ranged from 75.6 percent at the state-related commonwealth universities to 107.9 percent at the private state-aided institutions. The data are broken down by institutional type, in-state or out-of-state, and by level (undergraduate, graduate, and first-professional). Data for the specific institutions are also presented. (SW)

INTRODUCTION

The data on tuition and required fees and room and board charges contained in this publication reflect current year figures as reported by each institution of higher education. All institutions in the Commonwealth responded to the survey.

The data were obtained directly from the institutions on the appropriate schedule as provided by the Division of Education Statistics. Appreciation is extended to the responsive and cooperative group of higher education officials who are assisting in the continuous development of the Department of Education's higher education data system.

Any inquiries relative to this publication, including suggestions for change, should be directed to the Division of Education Statistics, Bureau of Information Systems, Department of Education, 333 Market Street, P. O. Box 911, Harrisburg, PA 17108 (Phone 717-787-2644).

In general, the tuition and required fees at institutions of higher education doubled from the academic year 1972-73 to 1981-82. By category these increases ranged from a low of 82.7 percent at the state-related commonwealth universities to a high of 128.5 percent at the private state-aided institutions. In many instances, tuition increases lagged behind the consumer price index by one or two years.

It should be noted that apparent decreases for certain years were actually caused by the addition of institutions with lower than average tuitions, the removal of institutions that closed which had higher than average tuitions or adjustments by an institution in their method of reporting.

1/ Average tuitions were not calculated for the proprietary schools or listed for the state school of technology because of the uniqueness of the charges in relation to the length of the programs.

2/ Averages were based on main campus tuition and required fees.

3/ Reflects a drop in tuition at Lincoln University after being granted status as a state-related commonwealth university in 1972.

Note: (1) Tuition and required fees that were reported on a credit-hour or per course cost were not used in calculating the average charges.

(2) Average community college charges are for in-state students residing in sponsoring areas only. Tuition for in-state students residing in nonsponsoring areas is approximately twice the listed tuition for in-state students.

The average combined room and board charges listed above include data for those institutions which reported charges for both room and board. Over the ten-year period, combined room and board charges increased at a smaller rate than tuition and required fees. These increases ranged from 75.6 percent at the state-related commonwealth universities to 107.9 percent at the private state-aided institutions.

As a note, the community colleges were not listed here. By the implied nature of these institutions, room and board charges are currently not applicable.

1/ Average room and board charges were not calculated for the proprietary schools or listed for the state school of technology because of the uniqueness of the charges in relation to the length of the programs.
2/ Averages do not include charges for room and board at branch campuses.
